

There is no problem with TPI as long as licensed suppliers adhere to all conditions on their license granted by the UR The MRC must be followed which clearly states that a licensed supplier must be in contract with a generator as we all know this is not always the case and licensed supplier can exploit this , they know the UR carries out no checks and then in turn they don't have a contract directly with the generator and use the excuse that the licensed supplier only has a contract with the Tpl which is not correct as the MRC is not being adhered to and the UR know this and have done very little about it all generators should have a contract with a licensed supplier bottom line and this is not what is happening

Just add to this all generators should have full control of their MPRN and not the so called licensed supplier we should be allowed to terminate if we so wish and not at the mercy of the licensed supplier in case they decide not to release us
