Gas Networks Ireland launches a national multi-media public awareness campaign featuring Daniel O'Donnell. Run on behalf of the Commission for Energy Regulation (CER) and its designated safety supervisory body, Registered Gas installers of Ireland (RGII), the campaign aims to highlight the necessity of using a Registered Gas installer for any work on gas appliances. Running across television, radio, digital, and print, the campaign is one of five public safety awareness programmes being rolled out by the national gas grid operator during 2016.
